Kotak Indo-Pacific Defence UCITS ETF

Key Features

Strategic importance

The Indo-Pacific has become the primary theatre of global geopolitical competition, especially amid growing tensions between China and its neighbours.

Rising defence budgets across Asia

Indo-Pacific nations are increasing military spending, resulting in the region's largest rearmament drive since the Cold War.

Local industry over imports

Countries like India, Japan, and South Korea are prioritising self-reliance by investing in domestic defence production. This shift from imports to local sourcing may offer a compelling opportunity for regional defence manufacturers.

Product Objectives

Kotak Indo-Pacific Defence UCITS ETF (QUAD) aims to provide exposure to Indo-Pacific defence spending, ex-China. China's military expansion has kick-started the most significant rearmament drive in the Indo-Pacific since the Cold War. In response, countries from India to Japan are not only increasing defence budgets but also accelerating efforts to localise arms production. This shift – from imports to domestic sourcing – presents a growing opportunity for Indo-Pacific defence companies.
