GLOSSARY

Tracking Error

The tracking error measures the volatility of a portfolio's relative return in relation to its benchmark index.

Volatility

An asset's volatility is the standard deviation of its return. As a measure of dispersion, it evaluates the uncertainty of asset prices, which is often equated to their risk. Volatility can be calculated ex post (retrospectively) or estimated ex ante (anticipatively).

Therefore, this document is general in scope and does not constitute an advice or a recommendation to any particular person to buy, sell or hold any security or to engage in any transaction. The investor may obtain the legal documentation for the financial instrument in question from his relationship manager.

Because this documentation summarises a product or a range of financial instruments or services, each potential investor is invited to refer to and carefully examine all the documentation relating to the financial instrument/service under consideration and, if necessary, should contact an authorised representative of the Bank with any questions relating to the financial instrument/service, in order to have a complete view of the characteristics and potential risks of the product or service under consideration. Every financial instrument/service carries a risk, usually in correlation to the expected performance or return: it is up to the investor to satisfy himself that he is able and willing to bear this risk.

The potential investor is strongly advised to be aware of and understand, if he has not already done so, the risks of each financial instrument or service in which he is interested. The investor should ensure that he has sufficient knowledge, understanding and experience of these risks to make his own detailed analysis of all aspects of the proposed transaction or service.

The investor must not see or construe this document as legal or fiscal advice. Each investor should consult his own external legal, fiscal or other advisors in order to assess under his own responsibility the appropriateness of investing in any of the financial instruments described in this document. The attention of the investor is drawn to the fact that the fiscal treatment that will be applied to his investment in the financial instrument described in this document does depend on his personal tax situation and will be likely to change during the implementation period of the product finally chosen. Certain legal, fiscal or regulatory changes may occur during the implementation period of a financial instrument/service and may also adversely affect the performance of the investment or even significantly alter the legal, economic and fiscal benefits of the financial instrument/service for the investor. Whilst this document illustrates simulations/performance and potential returns of the financial instrument or service based on market data in recent years, it should be noted that past performance or returns are no guarantee for future results. Except as specifically stated in writing, for example in the case of certain structured products, this document is not intended to give any guarantee whatsoever in respect of the capital invested (both in terms of preservation and recovery) and/or the financial return and/or performance of an investment in any financial instrument or service described herein. Similarly, none of the information provided can be construed as constituting such a guarantee. This means that in the event of adverse events, the investor could suffer substantial losses or even lose the entire capital invested, or even more in the case of leveraging.

The investor accepts that the Bank or the group to which it belongs or its employees/directors may hold or have held positions or interests in the financial instruments mentioned or may have acted as a market maker for such financial instruments. The investor accepts that the Bank or the group to which it belongs or its employees/directors may have links with the companies concerned and/or their directors and provide them with various services, including being a member of their boards of directors. Additionally, some financial instruments or services involve multi-manager funds. In this respect, it is also recalled that investing in such funds rather than directly in the underlying funds and/or financial instruments in which they invest, does or may generate additional costs for the investor.

The attention of the investor is drawn to the fact that in the event of concluding transactions in financial instruments, the services provided by the Bank are subject to fees or commissions that will be charged to the investor in accordance with the applicable rates, which are, in accordance with the Bank's General Terms and Conditions in force, subject to change during the term of the investment.
