Physical

Xtrackers IE Physical Silver ETC Securities are backed by a Direct investment in the underlying physical silver. The issuer is the direct and sole owner of the silver, which is held in Collateral accounts. Each physical ETC security entitles the holder to receive a specified quantity of silver (the "Metal entitlement") from the issuer's segregated pool. The value of the security is derived from the metal entitlement, the silver spot price and any applicable fees. Xtrackers IE Physical Silver ETC Securities combine the benefits of physical ownership of silver, such as participation in silver spot prices and minimal default risk, with the liquidity, transparency and ease of execution typical of exchange-traded products. Settlement of the ETC securities takes place in cash. No physical metal is delivered to holders of ETC securities on the secondary market, i.e. to holders who are not Authorised Participants.

Limited-Recourse

For each series of ETC securities, the underlying physical silver (Secured Assets) is owned by the issuer and is held via the custodian of the collateral account. In addition, it is charged in favour of the trustee in the name of the securityholders. Each series of ETC securities has recourse only to the secured assets relating to that series, after the relevant service providers have received all outstanding amounts relating to that series. These secured assets are not available to satisfy claims relating to any other series of ETC securities (the "ring-fencing principle").

Key Advantages

- Convenient investment option: A simple way to participate in the spot returns of the underlying silver. The ETC structure fits seamlessly into traditional brokerage accounts and portfolio management structures without the need to open a precious metals account.
- Liquidity of Xtrackers ETC: The securities are traded intraday on major European exchanges with intraday market making.
- Minimal tracking error: The returns of the ETC securities correspond to the spot returns of the underlying metal, less fees.
- Physical collateralisation: The ETC securities are physically backed by the corresponding silver, which is held in secure vaults.
- Transparent value: Precious metal prices are published on the Xtrackers website and in other news sources.
- Segregation: The physical metal is held in secure vaults and each ETC series is secured via a separate metal account with the custodian.

Key Risks

- Non-capital-protected investments: Xtrackers IE Physical Silver ETC Securities are not capital-protected investments, meaning an investor's capital is subject to the risk of total loss.
- Precious metal prices are generally more volatile than prices in other asset classes.
- Deduction of fees and no interest: Investments in Xtrackers ETC securities do not bear interest and performance is subject to the deduction of applicable fees.
- The value of an investment in ETC securities may rise as well as fall, and past performance is not a good indicator of future performance.
- Debt securities: By investing in ETC securities, an investor does not become the owner of the underlying metal.
- Counterparty risk: The ETC programme relies on many counterparties. If any counterparty fails to meet its obligations, this could adversely affect the product's performance.
- Secondary market pricing: Pricing of the ETC securities on the secondary market may occur at a significant discount or premium to the value per ETC security (intrinsic value) published by the issuer.
