

VIG Alfa Absolute Return Investment Fund

B series PLN MONTHLY report - 2026 MARCH (made on: 03/31/2026)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The aim of the fund is to achieve a substantial yield for investors by taking high risks and making active use of derivative positions. The Fund applies special investment strategies used by hedge funds to establish its strategy. The fund is willing to buy or sell all available investment instruments - domestic and foreign bonds (treasury bonds, discounted treasury bills, bonds issued by the National Bank of Hungary, as well as low-risk bank and corporate bonds expected to bring higher yields than the state securities) Equities and other securities, indices and currencies - provided it sees the opportunity to make substantial gains - up to the maximum limit allowed by the law, which allows double leverage for the Fund. In its investment decisionmaking mechanism, the Fund considers fundamental pricing, technical and behavioral psychological factors To ensure liquidity the Fund aims to hold government securities issued by the State Debt Management Centre (ÁKK) on behalf of the State of Hungary.

MARKET SUMMARY

The defining event of the month was the outbreak of armed conflict between the U.S. and Iran on February 28, which fundamentally reshaped the global risk landscape. The closure of the Strait of Hormuz—the most important transit route for oil and natural gas in the Middle East—and the mutual strikes against energy infrastructure painted a picture of a stagflationary scenario. The S&P 500 index ended March, down nearly 7%, marking the global stock market's largest monthly decline since 2022. The technology sector led the correction, while energy and defense stocks showed relative strength. The Fed, acting as the central bank, left the benchmark interest rate unchanged; however, the previously priced-in rate cut disappeared, and the 10-year yield rose to near 4.4%. The Euro Stoxx 50, the benchmark for Europe, was also hit by high oil prices, with the index—which tracks the share prices of the largest companies—falling 10%. In line with this, the EU warned that if the price of Brent crude oil, the benchmark for the continent, remains around $100 per barrel, inflation could rise above 3%, and GDP growth could fall short of the 1.4% forecast by as much as 0.4 percentage points. The European Central Bank has found itself in an extremely difficult position, as the energy price shock is hitting Europe proportionally harder than the U.S., making market pricing regarding interest rate policy divergence unsustainable. Airlines, the auto industry, and the luxury goods sector suffered the most, while energy and defense stocks were positive outliers.

March was not a favorable month for the Fund's main investments. The S&P 500 short and long put positions opened to hedge risk offered little help this time, as our regional investments declined more sharply, while U.S. stocks significantly outperformed this month. At the end of the month, we reduced our holdings of Hungarian and European oil and energy stocks, which had benefited from higher oil prices, and purchased Hungarian and Central European bank stocks, which performed well during the 2022 energy crisis due to widening bank margins. The Fund holds a high Hungarian duration, so it could currently benefit most from an appreciation in Hungarian assets.
