

VIG Alfa Absolute Return Investment Fund

PI series PLN MONTHLY report - 2025 SEPTEMBER (made on: 09/30/2025)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The aim of the fund is to achieve a substantial yield for investors by taking high risks and making active use of derivative positions. The Fund applies special investment strategies used by hedge funds to establish its strategy. The fund is willing to buy or sell all available investment instruments - domestic and foreign bonds (treasury bonds, discounted treasury bills, bonds issued by the National Bank of Hungary, as well as low-risk bank and corporate bonds expected to bring higher yields than the state securities) Equities and other securities, indices and currencies - provided it sees the opportunity to make substantial gains - up to the maximum limit allowed by the law, which allows double leverage for the Fund. In its investment decisionmaking mechanism, the Fund considers fundamental pricing, technical and behavioral psychological factors To ensure liquidity the Fund aims to hold government securities issued by the State Debt Management Centre (ÁKK) on behalf of the State of Hungary.

MARKET SUMMARY

In September, the prospect of a soft landing for the U.S. economy emerged once again. Poor labor market and retail data confirmed market expectations of interest rate cuts. Meanwhile, disinflation data allowed the Fed to restart the cycle of interest rate cuts without causing panic. The inflationary impact of Trump's tariffs has yet to materialize, allowing the Fed to "overlook" this risk. Slowing growth, easing inflationary pressures, and looser monetary policy created a favorable environment for a stock market rally and a rotation into previously lagging sectors as the year ended. However, the mood was not so rosy in European markets. Weak macroeconomic indicators discouraged risk-taking. Political uncertainty further exacerbated the situation, with the threat of a government crisis in France, for example, increasing volatility. Some positive news came from the reduction in U.S. car tariffs, which improved the outlook for German exports. Inflation stabilized at around 2%, prompting the ECB to leave its key interest rates unchanged. The market does not anticipate further easing. This strengthened the euro in early September, which is bad news for European companies that produce for export markets. The key question for October is whether inflation will continue to moderate. This could stabilize bond markets and provide support for equities, although weak growth could hinder progress.

The Alfa Fund achieved a positive return during the month. The favorable result was primarily driven by the significant Hungarian government bond portfolio, which experienced a decline in yield curve. We anticipate that this trend will persist in the near future. The growth in regional equities stalled and underwent a negative correction, during which we increased their weight in the portfolio in line with other European equities. We increased our gold investment after it demonstrated a technical breakout. In our view, the risk-seeking market environment is likely to persist for the rest of the year.
