MARKET SUMMARY

In June, market sentiment was shaped by the interim peace agreement surrounding the Iranian conflict. The 60-day ceasefire and the reopening of the Strait of Hormuz led to a decline in oil prices, which was particularly supportive for bond markets. As a result, the Polish bond market performed strongly during the month. One-year yields ended the month 13 basis points lower, while five-year and ten-year yields declined by 54 and 43 basis points, respectively. At its rate setting meeting in early June, the Polish central bank left the policy rate unchanged at 3.75%. According to the central bank's communication, no change in interest rates was necessary, as inflation remained within the central bank's tolerance band. Based on preliminary data, inflation declined to 2.5% in June from 3.1% in the previous month. The slowdown in inflation was mainly driven by lower food prices; however, energy prices continued to rise on an annual basis. Industrial production increased by 4.1% in the fifth month of 2026. Retail sales also strengthened but fell short of expectations, recording year-on-year growth of 3%.
