

VIG Emerging Market ESG Equity Investment Fund

PI series PLN MONTHLY report - 2025 DECEMBER (made on: 12/31/2025)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The aim of the Fund is to share in the performance of companies benefiting from the growth of developing economies, through share price increases or dividend payments of listed companies, either directly (through investments in individual stocks) or indirectly (through ETFs or mutual Funds), while taking environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria into account. The Fund does not directly invest in shares of Chinese companies within the emerging market universe. The geographical distribution is partly determined by the MSCI Emerging Markets Ex China Index, in which, besides a significant Asian (ex China) focus, European and Latin American companies are also heavily represented, and partly by the MSCI World with Emerging Markets (EM) Exposure Index, in which American and European companies represent the greatest weight. The use of stock and index futures is permitted in order to hedge and effectively build the Fund's portfolio. In selecting the stocks, the Fund pays special attention to the ESG compliance of individual companies; therefore, besides analysing financial factors, portfolio managers also consider environmental, social and governance factors in the investment decision process. The Fund Manager seeks to build a portfolio in which the positive ESG characteristics of companies prevail, i.e. companies with high ESG scores are overrepresented in the portfolio as compared to companies with low ESG scores.

The environmental criterion covers the elements where a business interacts with the environment. This includes, for example, the energy usage, waste management, and emission of pollutants of corporations, as well as the preservation of natural resources. Social criteria include all relations of a corporation with external partners, customers and internal employees. Corporate governance criteria include the legal conditions affecting the reliable operation of a corporation.

Due to the strategy of the Fund, it may also invest in assets denominated in foreign currency. The Fund may hedge some or all of its foreign currency risk using forward currency positions against the target currency, i.e. the settlement currency of the benchmark (USD). The Fund Manager has a discretionary right to reduce the foreign currency risk of positions denominated in a currency other than the target currency, depending on market developments, by entering into hedge transactions. In addition, the use of equity and index futures is permitted in order to effectively build the Fund's portfolio. The Fund records its assets in Hungarian forint (HUF).

MARKET SUMMARY

Most emerging market stock indices closed the last month of the year higher, with the MSCI global emerging market index gaining nearly 3% in dollar terms in December. The optimistic mood at the end of the year was reinforced by the US Federal Reserve's interest rate cut, but easing geopolitical risks also contributed to the year-end market rally. According to analysts, the weak dollar trend, which is favorable for emerging market economies, is likely to remain unbroken for the time being, which should continue to provide a supportive environment for emerging market currencies and investment instruments in the future. In addition to the easing of monetary policy in developed markets, the acceleration of processes that give hope for an end to the Russian-Ukrainian conflict also contributed to the positive market sentiment. Corporate profitability prospects also look encouraging, and there are no signs of any major disruptions to global economic growth, so despite the tight pricing in certain regions, valuation prospects also underpinned the stock market rally. Of the three largest emerging market indices (excluding China), the MSCI Korean stock index achieved double-digit growth in December in dollar terms, while the Taiwanese index also performed well, strengthening by nearly 6%. The Indian index, which has the largest weighting, closed the month slightly down. Other strong positive performances included the South African (MSCI) index, which rose by nearly 10%, and the Central European CETOP index (in USD), which strengthened by 7%. Latin America was the worst performer of the month, mainly due to the weak performance of the Brazilian stock market index. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index, calculated without Chinese equity exposure, which is the Fund's target, ultimately rose by just over 4% in December in dollar terms.
